AIRDALE TERRIERS BORN UNDER UNLUCKY STAR

FALLS VICTIM TO SPEED MANIA OF A TOURIST PARTY ON MAIN STREET

Roger is dead. Chris. Zeigler weeps. Kindness cannot assuage the sorrow that consumes the heart of the man who reared from puppyhood the airdale that was as well known on the streets of Tonopah as the best citizen. He was a good dog and the T. & G. market will regret the fact of his demise, since it was due to the vigilance of Roger that the place was saved from burglars and safe-blowers on several occasions. The end came yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Roger was taking a constitutional run down Main street when he ran foul of an auto loaded with a tourist equipment that was passing through the town. Roger was not quick enough to elude the wheels and sank under the forward one, which crushed his vitals. Chris. Zeigler was near and helped the suffering brute and fond companion to his nest in the market, but the injury was fatal and Roger expired in less than thirty minutes. The dog comes from an ill-fated family, hailing from the famous Millers kennels, and was as perfect a specimen of the tribe as could be found in the country. Roger was born as the property of Clyde LeJour two years ago. His eldest brother was killed by a locomotive at Millers and his sire was killed somewhere in the mountains back of Millers. Pal was the dad's name. He went out hunting with a pack of dogs one day and never returned. His death constitutes one of the mysteries of the desert. The other animals came home covered with blood, but Pal never showed. The owner will see that Roger receives decent burial.

TWO BOYS ESTABLISH RECORD IN FRANCO-AMERICAN FLYING LEAGUE

By Associated Press.
PARIS, June 19.—Robert Rockwell of Philadelphia and Paul Pavelka of Madison, Conn., have broken two records in their preparatory training at the military flying school at Buc, according to information given out at the headquarters of the Franco-American flying corps.

Rockwell completed his trial flights required before incorporation in the corps in 25 hours and was publicly congratulated by the officer commanding the school. Pavelka, who, previous to enlisting in the flying corps, served fourteen months in the trenches with the foreign legion, established a record in pistol shooting while in the air. He placed twelve bullets out of twelve shots in the head of a moving silhouette, representing the body of a man, at a distance of 100 yards. His work with the machine gun is said to be fully equal to his precision with a revolver. Pavelka now has his license for the most recent addition to French aviation, the new fast Nieuport biplanes, as well as all the other machines in the service.

Willis Haviland of Chicago and Frederick Prince of Boston have all finished their preliminary training at Buc and have gone to Pau to familiarize themselves with the newest machines before going to the front. Pavelka is completing his preparation at the aerial artillery school at Cazeau. Robert Soubrian of New York, whose preparation was delayed by illness, will soon undertake his official trials and then join the corps.

THRILLING LIFE OF AN ENGINEER

The San Francisco Chronicle prints the following story of John F. Jackson, brother in law of William De Courcy of the National Ice Company of Tonopah:

"Twice within nine years Chief Engineer John F. Jackson of the steamer Bear has figured in disasters of the sea on this coast. Jackson was made chief engineer of the Bear when the vessel left Newport News, where it was built, for the trip by way of the Magellan straits to San Francisco in 1910, and has held the position continuously from that time. Previously he was chief engineer on the steamer Columbia, which was lost with seventy-three out of 250 passengers in a collision with the steam schooner San Pedro off Shelter cove, on the Mendocino coast, on July 21, 1907.

"I can believe that my husband bears a charmed life," said Mrs. Jackson at their home, 1261 Pine street, yesterday. "After the loss of the Columbia I wanted him to give up the sea, but he was so hurt that I have never had the heart to suggest it again. He is wedded to his trade and is proud of the fact that he obtained his papers in England."

"Jackson was commended for his heroic conduct at the time of the Columbia disaster. The collision occurred a few minutes after midnight, when the passengers were all asleep in their berths. Jackson, aroused, rushed to the engine room and upon being informed of the seriousness of the ship's damages, told his assistants to look out for themselves. He then returned to the 'tween decks and assisted in rescuing many of the bewildered passengers.

"He left the ship in charge of one of its loaded boats, picked up a number of passengers who had leaped into the sea and assisted in landing them aboard the San Pedro, which stood off several hundred yards. Jackson and his boat were within 200 yards of the Columbia when that vessel disappeared into the sea, with all her electric lights aglow and her siren blowing, just eleven minutes after the crash. The following morning Jackson was knocked off the deck of the San Pedro by the breaking of the mainmast, and was himself rescued with difficulty by one of the San Pedro's boats.
